Co-Parenting: Mutual Respect

Air date: March 2, 2015

Ron: Good parents, respect each other.

Announcer: For FamilyLife Blended™, here's Ron Deal.

Ron: Now, let me be honest: there are some parenting tasks and attitudes that my wife is really good at – and I'm not. I respect her for it and she respects me for some of my strengths. That mutual respect helps us be a better team.

Well, it may surprise you to learn that healthy divorced or divided parents living in separate homes can do the same thing. Yeah, I know there are barriers to overcome, but really good co-parents find a way to respect each other and they help the other person succeed as a parent. Now I realize striving for a cooperative spirit with the other home may not be convenient for you but you know who it is good for? Your kids. For FamilyLife Blended I'm Ron Deal.
