July 4th: Lighting Up the Dark Sky

Air Date: July 4, 2019

Ron: Have you ever watched fireworks on a sunny day?

Announcer: For FamilyLife Blended®, here's Ron Deal.

Ron: No, of course you haven't. Fireworks are made for nighttime because the dark sky provides the perfect backdrop. You know, some of us have a dark backdrop to our lives—great loss, financial strain, stress, or brokenness in a relationship or family. You may be going through that right now.

You know, just like fireworks, God has a way of lighting up the sky. The darkness remains but the light draws your attention away from it. This Fourth of July, while you watch the fireworks, remember that God has not forgotten you. And that compared to your darkness, He is light—a spectacular light! For FamilyLife Blended I'm Ron Deal.
