The Parental Unity Rules Part 1

Air Date: October 28, 2019

Ron: Your strength in parenting comes in part from your unity as a team.

Announcer: For FamilyLife Blended®, here's Ron Deal.

Ron: Parenting was really meant to be a team sport. Maybe you're married or maybe you're a single parent who's relying on extended family for support, whatever the case here is the first rule to maintaining your parental unity. Be proactive. Don't wait until problems occur to discuss your expectations, punishment, and how you'll build character in your kids.

Now, I know that sounds like a no-brainer, but about half of stepfamily couples are parenting on the fly never discussing their parenting strategies. Look, you have to work hard to get on the same parenting page and it's important that you do. United you stand, but divided they fall. For FamilyLife Blended I'm Ron Deal.
